

From The Editor's Desk

It is a great pleasure to publish "Global Journal of Society, Science and Technology" after a long hurdle. This dream has become possible with the hard work and untiring effort of our editors, sub-editors, reviewers, advisors and some of our beloved friends. We earnestly request people from different segments and strata of the society to join your generous hands and to be a part of the new baby. We cannot nurture and nourish it without your active participation and warm wishes.

In this journal there shall be no barrier of cast, creed or religion and there will be no gender bias. The originality and quality will be the sole criteria for publication. We will be eagerly waiting for your research articles, review articles and criticisms in positive direction to rectify ourselves for the future so that it can grow as an international journal in the true sense with your valuable suggestions and advice.

With warm wishes to all our friends and would be friends throughout the globe.

Prof. (Dr) Pranabesh Chakraborty,

Editor in Chief

Global Journal of Society, Science and Technology

Kolkata, West Bengal, India.